“CENTURY 21 NY METRO” APPOINTS ROBERT SUH AND DAVID RABINOWITZ AS CO-DIRECTORS OF RENTAL RELOCATIONS

(New York, New York, July XX, 2007) Robert Suh and David Rabinowitz, formerly rentals agents of Century 21 NY Metro, have been appointed as co-directors of the Rental Relocation program in both New York City offices.

“Robert and David have been servicing CARTUS and other relocation relationships for the past year with stellar results. It is only natural that we allow them to manage the business side for both service providers and direct relationships completely and grow our relocation business,” comments Mike Simon, president, Century 21 NY Metro. “Because our rentals division has grown rapidly with a key focus on customer service, we have become a top performing provider within the CARTUS network. With this expertise now fully developed, Robert and David will be our springboard to developing direct relationships with New York-based corporations to handle their relocation needs.”

Both Suh and Rabinowitz are natives of Staten Island and attended Port Richmond High School together. Suh graduated from SUNY-Albany with a Degree in Communications with a Minor in Finance. Rabinowitz graduated from Binghamton University with a Degree in Economics and a Minor in Finance. He started his career in real estate two years ago as a rentals agent. Suh started his career at Dwelling Quest as a rentals agent three years ago. Both Suh and Rabinowitz have been top-producers in rentals at C21NYC, garnering many awards.

“I’m really enthusiastic about building the rentals relocation program and getting our name out in the corporate community,” Suh explains.

“Relocation clients require a different level of service; I enjoy helping people find the perfect place in such a big city. It feels great making a stressful and nerve-wracking process an enjoyable one for my clients,” says Rabinowitz.
